

A loan and selling exhibition of art in oil, watercolour, etching, wood engraving and ceramics inspired by a love of the countryside and a rural lifestyle

MIRIAM MACGREGOR

Miriam was born in Assam, India and came to England when she was 10. She still remembers the first impact of the gentle English landscape seen from the train, and her engravings retain that freshness. She subsequently trained at the Guildford school of art, having previously studied at Hastings art college where she met her fellow artist, John Lawrence, who introduced to wood engraving and she developed this interest while working as a typographer for Batsford books in London.

In 1977 she joined the Whittington Press and went on to illustrate many of their handsome books as well acting as typographer there for her friend, the letterpress owner-publisher John Randle. She has created images for other fine press publishers, including the Folio Society and Primrose Hill Press, and has furnished wood engravings for the horticultural journal, Hortus, in addition to her countless engravings and pochoir illustrations for the Whittington Press. She is a member of the Society of Wood Engravers and Royal Society of Painter-Printmakers.

Warmth, humour and a love of the domestic scene and the Cotswold countryside in which she lives have been the distinguishing features of Miriam's work during her long career as an author and illustrator.

We have a selection of her signed work available for purchase, including individual wood engravings and her scarce pochoir illustrations for books
